From Silicon Valley leadership to inner leadership

An award-winning author and former Silicon Valley executive, JJ brings two decades of experience in technology and business leadership. She has served on multiple boards, led teams, and built businesses and communities from the ground up.

Her work bridges practical leadership and inner wisdom, with particular depth supporting accomplished women.

After building the success she had worked toward, JJ felt a deeper calling that achievement alone could not answer. Years of spiritual exploration became books, practitioner conversations, retreats, and teachings that help others trust their own inner wisdom.
